DETAILED ACTION

Responsive to communications entered 10/2/2008. Claims 8-27 are pending.

The following election of species has been necessitated by applicant's amendment to the claims entered 10/2/2008 therein introducing species previously not considered in the examination of group I.

Species Election

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable.

Each genus identified below is indicated in bold. Applicant is requested to elect one species from within each genus of the elected invention.

(From claims 16-27) applicant is to elect one cytosolic accessory protein such as set forth in claims 16-20, specified as to the presence a particular tag (claims 22-25) or absence thereof and oligomeric state. For example, applicant might elect a dimer of beta1a calcium ion channels tagged with biotin. Currently claims 16-18 recite specific species where claims 19 and 20 recite different subspecies of claim 17 and 18 species of proteins. Claims 21 – 27 are included here as dependent from claim 16.

Each of the above in claims 16 – 27 are independent and/or distinct because claims to the different species has mutually exclusive chemical, physical, and biological characteristics and functions. In addition, these species are not obvious variants of each other based on the current record.

There is an examination and search burden for these independent and/or distinct elements of the Markush groups due to their mutually exclusive characteristic functions. The species require a different field of search (e.g., searching different classes/subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search queries); and/or the prior art applicable to one species would not likely be applicable to another species; and/or the species are likely to raise different non-prior art issues under 35 U.S.C. 101 and/or 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

The election of the species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the election of species requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected species.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the species unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other species.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
